KEY HEADLINES FROM THE MARKET

- The 10-year benchmark (6.94% GS 2036) yield concluded the week at 7.2994 at 8.61 bps above the previous week's closing figure.
- The weekly movement in spreads include 10Y Indian Treasuries (8.61 bps above), 10Y UST (3 bps below), 10Y Bund (3 bps above), and 10Y UKT (7 bps above).
- The US 30-year bond yield hit a fresh 24 year high on Wednesday, as a selloff in world bond markets resumed a day after getting some respite from worries over higher inflation and government debt loads. The 30-year yield briefly touched 5.7041% ahead of the release of the Federal Reserve's September meeting minutes later in the day.
- China's foreign exchange reserves fell to $3.4 trillion at the end of September 2026, down $38.1 billion from a month earlier. The State Administration of Foreign Exchange attributed the decline primarily to a stronger US dollar and surging US Treasury yields, which likely led to currency translation and asset valuation changes.
- Japan's 30-year government bond yield surged to a historic 4.235%, with market participants keenly anticipating Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi's upcoming address. Meanwhile, yields on shorter-maturity bonds dipped, reflecting adjustments in the financial landscape. Investors are wary that Takaichi's spending agenda could exacerbate Japan's fiscal challenges.
- Core PCE prices in the United States, which are the Federal Reserve's preferred gauge of underlying inflation, rose by 3.3% from the previous quarter in the second quarter of 2026, falling below the 3.6% second estimate and slowing from a downwardly revised 3.9% increase in the previous period.

INDIAN MARKET UPDATE

- Indian government bonds have faced a downturn for the eighth consecutive week, primarily influenced by soaring oil prices and a more aggressive stance from the central bank. The yield on benchmark bonds has surged, signaling a drop in investor confidence. Additionally, the Reserve Bank of India raised the repo rate to 5.50%, with economists anticipating further increments that may take it to at least 6.00%.

- In recent years, states have made a substantial impact on their finances by reissuing bonds, which now form a significant portion of their market borrowings. This trend, particularly pronounced over the last two years, illustrates an increased involvement from state governments. Coupled with the Reserve Bank of India's push for greater market transparency, the reissuance of bonds could enhance liquidity, creating a more appealing landscape for bond investors.

- Banks are expected to report a nearly 60% decline in treasury income for the July-September quarter. Analysts predict treasury gains to decrease from ₹13,100 crore last year to ₹5,500 crore this year.

- The Reserve Bank of India has increased its key policy rate by 25 basis points, raising it to 5.50%. This adjustment signifies a strategic step towards cautious monetary tightening shaped by global economic developments. Traders are exercising caution due to heightened global yields and soaring crude oil prices impacting the bond market.

CURENCY MOVEMENT

In recent trading, the Indian rupee closed at 96.73 against the dollar, showing minimal fluctuation from its prior standing. The rupee's slide was mitigated by dollar sales from state-run banks, although it lingers close to record lows. Analysts foresee a further downturn due to challenging market conditions, with the currency's stability affected by a decline in India's foreign exchange reserves over the past four weeks.

India's foreign exchange reserves fell for a fourth consecutive week to $734.6 billion as of October 2, 2026, according to a footnote to Reserve Bank of India Governor Sanjay Malhotra's monetary policy statement. Reserves have declined from their recent peak of $785.71 billion on September 4, a drop of around $50 billion in less than a month.

KEY UPDATES AND WEEK AHEAD

Americas: Markets will focus on the IMF–World Bank annual meetings, the IMF's updated World Economic Outlook and speeches from global central bankers, including Fed Chair Warsh, amid elevated energy costs, record public debt and rising yields. US September CPI is expected to accelerate to 3.6% YoY, with headline inflation rising 0.6% MoM and core CPI increasing 0.2%.

Europe: The key focus will be final Eurozone inflation, expected to confirm an acceleration to 3.8% in September, while industrial production is forecast to rebound 0.1%. Germany's wholesale prices are expected to rise 0.7% MoM, alongside final inflation releases from France, Spain and Italy.

Asia-Pacific: China's September inflation and trade data will be in focus, with CPI expected to accelerate to 1.1%, PPI to 4.4%, exports to grow 25.3% and imports 23.5%; new yuan loans are forecast at CNY 975bn. In Japan, producer inflation is expected to remain elevated at 7.6%, while machinery orders are forecast to rebound 2.5% MoM.
